National Youth Work Induction Checklist

The Youth Work sector has developed this checklist of topics that should be covered during induction training for youth workers. Facilitated by YouthLink Scotland’s Youth Work Training Forum, this checklist should ensure inductions give a good sense of the values, principles, approaches and skills needed to deliver youth work as well as key practical considerations. These topics help practitioners to meet the National Occupational Standards for Youth Work and the competences for Community Learning and Development (CLD).

The purpose is to have a minimum induction standard across Scotland so that staff and volunteers can expect the same level of induction training wherever they practice and so that induction is transferable across organisations and locations. This recognises training that practitioners have already participated in, the time commitment they have given and the quality of induction provision across the youth work sector.

The principles of this checklist are:

- The pitch and level expected is one of awareness raising. There is an expectation that practitioners will do further training in these areas.
- The content should be adapted to your organisation and the nature of the young people you work with, making use of existing resources and learning opportunities.
- We have agreed a notional minimum learning time of two hours per section throughout the checklist.
- We would recommend that practitioners complete this induction within 12 months of starting youth work practice.

Support for training for your organisation

This is what we recommend you provide for individuals getting involved in your youth work provision as staff or volunteers. Some organisations will already have a lot of resources, training plans and support for youth workers on these topics.

If you need any help with delivering training or finding resources on these themes please contact YouthLink Scotland or Youth Scotland for support and signposting to existing resources.

If you don’t have some of the organisational policies e.g. child protection in your own organisation we recommend you contact a national organisation e.g. Youth Scotland.
